BEBEK UMA PADI

Since 1908, the people of Canggu Village have been raising ducks as part of their agricultural tradition. These ducks come from Uma Desa Canggu, a vast 98-hectare rice field where they play a vital role in maintaining the ecosystem by naturally controlling pests and providing organic fertilizer to enrich the soil. In addition to supporting sustainable farming, duck farming also serves as an economic resource for the community, as the ducks are eventually sold to restaurants and prepared into signature dishes that preserve the rich flavors and traditions of the region.
